

HEAVY DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY HIGH WINDS IN SOUTH

Rain Quenches Timber and Prairie Fire Bringing Welcome Relief

Shelbyville, Ill., Nov. 5.—(AP)—High winds which swept through many southern Illinois cities late yesterday subsided today, leaving damage estimated into thousands of dollars but no serious reported injuries.

Telephone communications were disrupted for several hours at places throughout the area. Trees were uprooted and power lines blown down by strong winds. Many plate glass windows were broken. The rain, however, quenched a timber and prairie fire raging in southern Illinois, bringing welcome relief to several hundred fire fighters who were sent home. Although the blaze swept 10 miles of wooded bottom lands of the Haw and Skillet Fork rivers, no serious damage to farm property was reported.

Wildfire was believed to have spread most from the 2-day fire. A wind which swept into this city from the south unroofed a factory building, but 150 workers were unharmed. City officials said damage was "heavy."

Stack Ripped Off

In East St. Louis, the upper 20 feet of a 100-foot smokestack on a hotel was ripped off, dropping fragments on an automobile. Electric light and power wires also were blown down.

The roof of a grocery in Centralia collapsed, causing loss estimated at several thousand dollars. Principal damage was to merchandise. The wind toppled an oil derrick four miles west of Centralia owned by the Adams Oil and Gas company.

At Belleville, the main damage was to trees and power lines. Scott field reported the gale reached a 66-mile-an-hour velocity.

A large cross 155 feet in the air on the steeple of St. Joseph's Catholic church at Freeburg was blown down.

Communications from St. Louis to southern Illinois cities was disrupted by a 43-mile wind and heavy rain in St. Louis. The telephone company reported all service restored on 71 crippled circuits last night.

Expenditures Group to Watch Voting Tuesday

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The senate campaign expenditure committee said today it would have investigators keep a vigilant watch on the voting in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and North Dakota Tuesday.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) said "observers" would be stationed in Philadelphia, Jersey City and Bismarck, N. D.

Some of the 20 investigators employed by the committee also will be in Ohio, Illinois and Vermont on election day, but Sheppard said these men were working on charges of political abuse in campaigns and would not be observing voting unless there were new developments.

Accidental Firing Kills British Soldier; 5 Hurt

London, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The accidental firing of one of Britain's famed "12 shots a minute" anti-aircraft guns, in which a blank had been loaded instead of an empty shell case, killed one territorial soldier and wounded five others.

The crew manning the gun, reputed to be a deadly menace to any existing aircraft, was "cleaning up" after a mock air attack when a blank shell left in the breech was fired accidentally, hurling a ramrod into the crew.

BUSINESS VOLUME OF GRAIN TRADE HITS A NEW LOW

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A drop of almost 50 per cent compared with last year has cut the grain trade's volume of business down to the lowest level on record, market statistics showed today.

Ebbing speculative interest in grain futures was blamed for the sharp decline in business. Merchandising operations in the grain pits have gone on normally, with the marketing of big crops the past summer but the volume of buying and selling required to give the market liquidity has been unusually small.

For the first ten months of the year trading in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade, where almost ninety per cent of all such transactions are made, totaled 6,636,972,000 bushels compared with approximately 12,940,000,000 bushels the corresponding 1937 period.

Aggregate sales of grain futures last month totaled 444,530,000 bushels compared with 693,096,000 in September. In the last week of October the total was 113,110,000 bushels, compared with 119,010,000 the previous week and 230,527,000 a year ago.

Traders estimated that if the current rate of business is maintained the remainder of the year total 1938 volume will be approximately 8,000,000,000 bushels, which would compare with 10,006,000,000, the previous low record established in 1932, which also was a period of low prices. Last year transactions totaled 14,680,000,000 bushels and the all-time high of 26,895,000,000 was established in 1925.

General business conditions, absence of market leaders who take the initiative in trade operations, government regulations and the general uncertainty of the situation in grains are factors retarding volume, experts said.

Five Imported Arabian Horses for Babson Farm

George Cason of the Babson Arabian Horse Farm returned early this morning from New York, bringing with him five imported Arabian horses, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Babson of Chicago during an European tour earlier in the fall. The new additions to the Babson stable brings its total number of Arabian purebreds to 32.

The horses, chosen by the Babsons, after visiting numerous European stables, range from three to six-year-olds, and include two bay mares, a chestnut mare, a sorrel mare, and a blue gray stallion. Some were purchased from the government stud farm in Warsaw, Poland, and the others are from Hungary.

Mr. Cason plans to enter some of the newly-imported horses in the international Arabian show at Cincinnati in the spring.

Suggests FDR Paving Way for a Third Term

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for governor, suggested last night that President Roosevelt was paving the way for a third term by appealing for support of Governor Lehman and the New Deal.

In a radio address, replying to the President's "fireside" broadcast from Hyde Park, Thomas said:

"The President, perhaps unconsciously, was laying the groundwork for his own third term in stressing the need for continuity in the administration's liberal policies."

$50,000 Fire Today on South Side of Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Fire attacked a southeast side S. S. Kresge dime store early today causing damage estimated at $50,000.

Santa Claus Getting Yuletide Present in Form of Prospective Oil Boom This Year

Santa Claus, Ind., Nov. 5.—(AP)—This little southern Indiana village, famous as a Christmas postoffice, is getting a present of its own Yuletide—a prospective oil boom.

With leasing activity lively and test wells about to be started, Santa Claus looks forward today to a very Merry Christmas—and dreams of a new year of oil riches. It's expecting, too, the usual Christmas postal boom.

A third factor which may help make the season a lively one here is litigation between two promoters who believed the village of Santa Claus could be made to pay. The rival promoters, Carl A. Barrett and Milton E. Harris, are wrapped up in a couple of lawsuits and may get their days in court just about Christmas time. The oil boom is the big thing, though. Lease agents are busy

CHICAGO CARDINAL GIVEN DIPLOMATIC WELCOME TO ROME

Naples, Nov. 5.—(AP)—George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, received the unusual honor of a diplomatic welcome by United States officials today upon his arrival at Naples enroute to report to Pope Pius on the New Orleans eucharistic congress.

The Cardinal disembarked from the liner Rex and was accompanied by Ambassador William Phillips and Rear Admiral Henry E. Lackey, commander of the United States Mediterranean fleet, to the cruiser Omaha, where he was the Admiral's luncheon guest.

After the luncheon the Cardinal was to return to the liner, then disembark in official form before entraining for Rome.

The reception aboard the Omaha carried out all the ceremonies of diplomatic procedure.

Occasion Unique.

High Vatican officials as well as local authorities greeted the Cardinal, but the presence of the United States ambassador made the occasion unique, since American diplomatic relations with the Vatican were discontinued 60 years ago.

Both American and Vatican diplomats, however, said they knew nothing to confirm talk to the United States of moves for resumption of diplomatic relations.

Guests at the luncheon included Monsignor Patrick Hayes, the Cardinal's private secretary; Bishops Francis Hoban of Rockford, Ill., William Griffin of La Crosse, Wis., the Rev. Daniel Cunningham, superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Chicago; Dr. Louis Moorhead, dean of the medical faculty of Loyola University, Chicago, and Mrs. Moorhead; Father Francis Ryan of Berwyn, Ill., and Father William Plunkett of Elmhurst, Ill.

LAST MINISTER IN '68.

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The last American minister to the Vatican was Rufus King, of Wisconsin, a noted general in the Civil War.

King resigned January 1, 1868, after congress failed to appropriate funds for continuing the diplomatic mission at the papal court on what King called "the alleged erroneous grounds that the Pope refused to permit protestant worship within the walls of Rome."

The question stirred debate in congress, but once relations were severed they never were resumed.

Gov. Horner Has Cold; Cancels Today's Speech

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gov. Henry Horner has been stricken with a cold and forced to withdraw, temporarily at least, from the final stages of the Illinois election campaign, his associates said today.

The governor was resting in his suite at the Congress hotel. A member of the official party said the chief executive, on his physician's advice, had cancelled his scheduled speech tonight at Danville.

The governor's friends insisted there was nothing serious in his condition, that it was "just a cold" and that he was weary from exertions of the campaign. The doctor, they said, advised rest.

Horner was scheduled to speak tomorrow at Rockford and Decatur. The spokesman said it was problematical whether he could keep those engagements but neither had yet been cancelled.

Just Beginning

Emporium, Pa., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A spider bite sent McClellan Shadman, 20, to a hospital, but that was just the beginning of his troubles.

Before he got out he accepted his physician's advice and:

Underwent an appendix operation, had his tonsils removed and was treated for three hernias.

FOUR TAX-HUNGRY STATES CLAIMING COLONEL AS OWN

Wealthy Nomad Lived in Many Areas During His Lifetime

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Massachusetts went to the front today in the ranks of four tax-hungry states which claimed Col. Edward H. R. Green as their own when he died and left a $36,000,000 estate.

A special master recommended to the Supreme Court that the Bay State be decreed as Green's legal domicile—giving it the right to collect a $4,947,008 levy, if the court concurs.

The master, John S. Flannery of Washington, called the son of a fabulously-wealthy Hetty Green a nomad, to whom "home was where he happened to be." Flannery rejected claims of Texas, New York and Florida.

Green, who paid rent of from $60 to $27,000 a year on some of his "homes," died in 1936. The federal government got $17,520,987 in taxes on a net estimate of $36,137,335. So far, no state has collected anything.

Litigation Begun

Litigation was begun by Texas, which sought to impose a levy of $4,685,057. The Texas complaint was directed against Massachusetts, New York, which sought $5,910,301, and Florida, which claimed $4,663,857.

Taxes claimed by the federal and the four state governments totaled $37,727,000, or $1,589,000 more than the value of the net estate, of which Mrs. Hetty Sylvia Ann Howland Green Wilks, a sister, is the sole legatee. Mabel Harlow Green, the widow, receives $18,000 a year under an agreement.

Green's almost fantastic career, from his birth in England to his death at Lake Placid, N. Y., occupied the greater part of the master's 57-page report. Green was educated in Vermont, Massachusetts and New York, lived in Texas for 20 years, married in Illinois, later lived in New York, Massachusetts and Florida and was buried in Vermont.

Report Loyalist Ship Captured in North Sea

Emden, Germany, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Authorities sources said today a Spanish government freighter had been captured in the North Sea by the Spanish insurgent auxiliary cruiser Ciudad de Alicante.

The crew of the merchant ship, identified as the Rio Miera, was said to have been imprisoned and the seized ship brought to port here with an insurgent crew.

(This was the second attack within a week by a Spanish insurgent man-of-war on a Spanish government merchant vessel in the North Sea.)

(The freighter Cantabria, under charter to British operators, was bombed and sunk by the insurgent armed auxiliary cruiser Nadir Wednesday within sight of England's east coast.)

(A Reuters—British News Agency—report from Berlin said the Rio Miera had been sunk by the Ciudad de Alicante but Lloyds was investigating another report that the Spanish merchantman had been seized.)

Two children were reported to have run from the cabin when Mr. Raffensberger appeared and they were to be questioned this afternoon. Practically every drawer in the cabin was ransacked and several articles were burned. Entrance was gained by shattering a window frame. Several articles in the cabin had been maliciously destroyed, burned or damaged. There were also indications that an attempt had been made to burn the building.

President's "So What, Considering Source" Brings Retort: "Intemperate" Discussion

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The New York Tribune, replying today to criticism by President Roosevelt of an editorial in the newspaper, asserted on its editorial page that the executive "not only had failed to understand the point" made but also had seen fit to discuss it "intemperately."

Today's editorial was titled "So What, Considering the Source." The president in a press conference at Hyde Park yesterday criticized as deliberate misrepresentation an editorial "So What?" dealing with his reply to a query last week relating to a Republican state committee poll of 5,000 voters in Connecticut.

The poll showed 85 per cent of the 5,000 persons answered "no" as to whether they believed they were better off than two years ago. The president said his comment as "So What, Considering the Source." He said the editorial omitted mention of the organization and his words "considering the source."

In its reply, the newspaper said in part:

"The president was indignant because we omitted the phrase 'considering the source.' To him the source was apparently more important than the question, and if we understand him correctly, the fact that the source was Republican made the question unworthy of his serious attention."

"It is significant that the president made no attempt to refute or to answer in any way the points which were made. x x x"

DIVORCE SEEKERS GET INJUNCTIONS AGAINST HUSBANDS

Judge Albert H. Manus of Freeport, in circuit court yesterday afternoon, issued an injunction directed to Miley Gilroy of this city, restraining him from in any way molesting or interfering with his wife, Hester M., or their infant son during the pendency of a divorce proceeding, which was instituted by her.

In her bill Mrs. Gilroy charges that in March of this year, her husband secured a gun and cartridges and threatened to kill her. Her screams, the plaintiff charges, attracted the attention of outsiders who intervened and disarmed her husband. The defendant is charged in the complaint with having made repeated threats upon Mrs. Gilroy and her son, Miles James Gilroy, and she seeks divorce and the care and custody of the child.

Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court this morning issued a writ of injunction directed to Fred Stanley of this city, restraining him from in any manner interfering with or molesting his wife, Virginia Stanley or her child either in her home or in a public place. The injunction is the outgrowth of divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Stanley several days ago.

Mr. Vogt testified that he observed the pedestrian walking along the Franklin-Grove gravel road about a quarter of a mile north of Franklin Grove Thursday evening at 6:30, and sounded the horn of his car. The victim stepped directly in front of the machine, Vogt said, and in an effort to prevent striking him he swerved his car to the left side of the road. George Biggs of this city in his testimony before the jury stated that his father's hearing and vision had been impaired for the past two years.

SHOWERS CHECK FOREST BLAZES IN MANY AREAS

However Fires Continue to Consume Thousands of Acres of Timber

By The Associated Press.

Forest fires consumed timber on additional thousands of acres today but rains checked the spread of flames in many sections of the nation's 16-state fire area.

Drenching rains in the south broke a prolonged drought and helped control hundreds of blazes but permanent relief depended upon continued precipitation.

The damage to timber stands and farm crops was estimated in the hundreds of thousands. The fire area extended from Michigan to the gulf and from the Atlantic to the Mississippi watershed.

H. W. Berckman, district forester, estimated the timber loss in one Kentucky county, Harlan, at $200,000. Fires swept over 8,000 acres in the state and endangered five major coal mining properties Harlan and Pike counties in the coal fields still were menaced despite the rains.

"Back Against the Wall"

There were a hundred major fires and uncounted small ones raging in West Virginia where, State Forester D. B. Griffith said, the flames had the fire-fighters "backs against the wall." A 1,600-mile area—one fourth of the state—was in the fire zone. Nearly 3,000 men were on duty.

The West Virginia blazes burned a coal tippie at Thurmond, causing a loss of $10,000, threatened four mining towns and isolated woodland homes, and advanced to the edge of Charleston, the capital.

Heavy rains curbed fires in southern Illinois after Governor Henry Horner had declared a state of emergency existed

SMALL HOMES • STORES • APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

SMALL HOMES EXPRESS CHARM

Plan an Elevation Must Be Carefully Worked Out

It is impossible to take a large, spacious and pretentious house, reduce it in scale to a five or six-room house, and have good architecture as a result. It is necessary to provide certain proportions for the rooms — a certain height to the ceiling and a certain size of the rooms.

Yet the small home can express as much charm as the larger house.

The problem of such a small six-room house is one that will try the skill and ability of any architect, and if he wishes to design a pleasing and satisfactory dwelling, he will spend much time in working out the plan and the elevation.

Explain to the architect fully what your needs and requirements are; the style of house you prefer; your wishes in the many little details that go to make the individuality of your house, and he will put into the complete whole as many as are appropriate to the

PAINT UP DULL KITCHEN WALLS FOR GOOD LIGHT

If your kitchen is dark, paint the walls a soft yellow or ivory, lavender or orchid pink. If the kitchen is very light, soften the glare from the light on the walls by using cool greens, soft grays, mauves and the putty colors.

If the trim or woodwork is finished in a color give it a high gloss. It will appear better.

The painted furniture of a kitchen should match the woodwork in color. A flat paint with two coats of waterproof varnish is a practical finish for kitchen furniture, and a tinted paint gives the softest light.

By all means use a flat paint on the ceiling rather than a glossy or semi-glossy paint.

PINE INTERIOR PRODUCES INDIVIDUALITY

The vertical pine sheathing of this room forms a perfect background for the early American period furniture. In keeping with the character of the room are the old-fashioned coverlets on the beds. Pine interior wall finishes produce the atmosphere of friendliness and individuality, and innumerable decorative effects are possible with the use of pine. Then, too, such built-in conveniences as bookshelves, cases, chests and so on are possible with the pine room. Note the hand-hewn beams and rough textured plaster between the beams.

MODERN BATHS FAR CRY FROM THOSE IN ROME

It is a long way from the Roman bath to our present day sanitary individual bathrooms.

Rome had many public baths, Caracalla being the finest of all accommodating about 1,600 bathers at one time.

The Roman bath consisted of three procedures—first, a sweat, then a scrubbing, and later followed by a shower and a rubdown; followed by a rest period.

Compare the Roman bath of hundreds of years ago with our present modern private bath and the luxury that every individual American family can have in its own home.

KNOT HOLE NEWS

NOVEMBER 5, 1938

A drafty house is worse than living out-of-doors. When you're out of doors you're usually snugly bundled up and on the move and hence you can keep warm and comfortable. But when you're in a house that is not properly "weather conditioned," you fall easy prey to uneven temperatures and drafts that undermine your resistance to colds.

We specialize in "weather conditioning" houses. It can be done easily and at very little cost. Call us today for FREE estimates. It will pay you dividends in money and enjoyment in the long run.

Mrs. Smith was very much interested in her new neighbors. She reported to her husband: "They appear most devoted. He kisses her each time he goes out and calls her up four or five times during the day. Why don't you do that?"

"Why don't I?" replied Smith. "Good heavens, I don't even know the woman."

in borrowing

Occasionally everyone needs to borrow money. What's a good rule to follow?

First of all figure out carefully where the money is coming from to repay the loan. Then borrow only what you can repay without undue inconvenience to yourself and family.

A little foresight will help you build up and maintain a high credit rating.

H. R. Lissack, superintendent of Rochelle's elementary schools, today received a telegram from Senator James Hamilton Lewis approving a WPA grant of $4,100 for the improvement of the new Central school grounds.

H. R. Lissack, superintendent of Rochelle's elementary schools; A. R. Bogue, president of School Board District No. 131, Clarence A. Anderson, president of School District No. 212, and Mrs. H. R. Lissack were heard over Station WLS at Chicago Thursday night, Nov. 3, at 7:15 o'clock in connection with a series of broadcasts that are being sponsored by the departments of education throughout the middle western states under the "Know Your Schools" program.

Superintendent Lissack's talk was made in response to a request from the Illinois State Department of Education. His subject, "School Construction" was presented in the form of a dialogue with Dr. A. R. Bogue and C. A. Anderson of Rochelle presenting their views on the subject. Dorothy Edwards, visiting teacher was also to have been heard on this program but due to illness Mrs. Lissack, who had been rehearsing on the script with the local men, filled in so that the program could go on. The reception was excellent and the presentation of the subject was exceedingly well received by the large radio broadcast in the national hookup.

CABINET SINKS GROW POPULAR

One more step toward compact efficiency in the kitchen can be taken with the installation of one of the several types of kitchen cabinet sinks, developed recently by manufacturers of plumbing fixtures.

Cabinet sinks usually are made with a low back, so they will fit under windows. Drainboards, back and basin in most types are made in one piece, although there are well designed cabinets which permit the drainboards to fit over the sink. A narrow rim, plus a toe recess at the bottom of the cabinet, permit easy access to the basin for washing dishes. Provision also is made for ventilation.

The majority of steel cabinets have a baked enamel finish. Wood cabinets are either enameled or heavily painted in white or in color.

Steel Basement Windows

Steel windows for the basement offer rigidity, fine appearance, and splendid weathering qualities. The rigidity is obtained through the method of manufacturing which builds the jam and sill together in one unit.

The windows are attractive due to the narrow margin of material which lies between the masonry jam and the glass itself. The sash and the frame fit very closely together and make a tight-fitting window.

Installation can be made in any type of construction—cement block, brick, wood, tile, fieldstone, or poured concrete. The windows are supplied in several types, sizes, and divisions of window glass. They may be obtained from stock. Each window is a complete unit in itself.

SOUNDLY BUILT HOME IS BEST

Luxurious equipment and finishes on a house at the expense of sound construction is a waste of money and a mistake in judgment. It is better to invest your money in a soundly and well built modest home than in a house that looks like a mansion and is full of ginger-bread ornament and poor workmanship and inferior materials.

PROPOSALS TO AID RAILROADS TO BE DISCUSSED MONDAY

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—Railroad labor and management, their wage quarrel composed and a strike threat dispelled, will confer here Monday on proposals for legislation to rehabilitate the carriers.

President Roosevelt gave assurance of his support for an effort to "put through a constructive program of legislation at the next session of congress."

Executives of the major roads decided yesterday at Chicago to drop their proposals for a 15 percent wage cut. Nearly 1,000,000 workers had voted to strike rather than accept it.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, notified Roosevelt that the action was taken because rail management officials "recognize the gravity of this situation and because they hope that out of it will come, through cooperation of all concerned, a sounder and more equitable policy."

The roads did not abandon the wage cut, Pelley told the president, because they agreed with conclusions of the fact-finding board appointed. After weeks of hearings the board reported that it believed no reduction should be made.

After receiving Pelley's message Roosevelt declared that "everybody in the nation is happy that the railroads will withdraw the notices of wage reductions."

Jubilantly, George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, told reporters the action cleared the way for conferences on a legislative program.

Recently Roosevelt appointed an informal committee of six, including three representatives of management and three of labor, to work out legislation for submission to congress.

Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the senate interstate commerce committee, who conducted an intensive investigation of railroad finances, has urged that legislation be enacted to speed up reorganization of insolvent roads.

The Army Post Murders

By VIRGINIA HANSON

THE CHARACTERS
Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.
Elizabeth, the colonel's daughter.

Chapter Two
THE MANDARIN COAT
"I hope you don't mind Annie," Elizabeth was saying hurriedly when the kitchen door opened again. This time only the head came into the dining room, an expression of elaborate innocence on the aggressive face.

"I suppose you'll be wanting the car this afternoon?"

"Certainly," Elizabeth's manner was cold.
"All right, all right. I just thought if you wasn't using it I might run into town and do me week-end marketing..."

The head withdrew and indistinct mumbled could be heard.
"She's so provoking about my car," Elizabeth murmured indignantly. "Ever since I got it she's been at me to let her drive it. She knows better than to ask Father for his, but she can't seem to realize that I'm grown. She's been with us for years, of course—since Mother died just after the war—and she thinks of herself as one of the family."

"Can she drive?"
"She says she can, but I'm sure I don't know when she learned unless it was while her husband was alive. He was a sergeant in the regiment, you know—killed in action. Of course cars are very different now, and I don't suppose she realizes that."

"I never heard her so talkative before."

We sat on the veranda for a while, talking lazily and listening to the drowsy hush of the afternoon.

"I'm afraid you'll be bored here, it's so quiet," Elizabeth said apologetically.

Although I protested the suggestion I could not know until later how great was her understatement. I was to be anything but bored.

Announcement Party.
She smiled and smiled. "There's polo at four. It won't be a good game, but if you like we'll drive over."

"You said we're going out to dinner?"
"Yes," Anne Carewe is entertaining before the hop. Did you meet her when you were here before?"

"Once. They had just come. She's the pocket-size Venus, isn't she, with the pansy eyes?"
"Isn't she lovely?" Elizabeth's tribute was a shade more serene than mine. She hesitated, went on, "Men find her very attractive."

"I know, I noticed that."
She rocked slowly, hands calm in her lap.

"I believe it is to be an announcement party," she said a shade too steadily—or was I imagining things?

You read that expression about your heart, standing still. Mine certainly stumbled and took a long time about starting on. I don't know what I was thinking for a minute. Charlie may be careless, but I wouldn't expect him to get engaged to two girls at the same time—not in a rational moment, I wouldn't. But I had not been exactly rational since that queer experience on the station platform.

The rocker creaked. "Yes," she said calmly. "I'm almost sure that she and Mr. Nelson are engaged."

For a minute I wasn't thinking much about anything but my relief, so that afterward, when I thought back over the conversation, I couldn't for the life of me remember whether there had been anything strained in her words or manner. It was true that she had referred to Barney as Mr. Nelson, but that was like her.

I haven't really described Elizabeth yet, she was built proudly, like the ancient goddesses, tall, and with lovely curves that she kept under rigid control. She bore herself royally, even in a rocking chair, and her fine flaxen hair was wound around her head like a coronet. She had good features, fine clear skin that was as innocent of make-up as a baby's, and blue eyes that were grave and honest. She wore no look of conscious beauty; and that, perhaps, is why so many who knew her looked on her and found her plain. But I can't describe her better than to say that no one ever called her Betty.

Costumes
"There was something else I wanted to tell you," she pouted, a thoughtful line between her brows. The rocker creaked. "Oh, I know. Mr. Nelson telephoned last night—he's chairman of the hop committee—and said they'd decided to make it a costume affair. They thought being in costume might liven people up a bit."

"Is there any place in the village where I can rent something?" I asked, but without much hope. "That won't be necessary. I must have something that can be taken in to fit you. There are at least half-a-dozen costumes in the attic. We're always having them in the army—costume parties, I mean. We can look now if you like."

I followed her up three flights of stairs. The storage space was bare except for four or five trunks which stood in an orderly row against the wall. Elizabeth began to delve into one of these—a battered leather trunk with a half-legible label from all over the Orient plastered haphazard over its surface.

It was a strange collection that she lifted out and placed on the floor—a pith helmet, out-moded party dresses, a handful of old-fashioned hop cards, their small pencils dangling, a brilliant shade of peacock blue, when I lifted it, ran through my fingers heavy and fluid.

She delved once more and brought to the surface a note of Chinese pajamas of a heavenly shade of peacock blue. I reached for them covetously.

"I'm sure they will fit you," she said, but with an odd note of doubt in her voice. "And they're a lovely color with your red hair."

She paused and thought deeply. "You know the Chinese girls really wear them on the street, so they're not actually immodest. I know." Her face brightened. She dove back into the trunk, explaining as she worked.

"A mandarin coat that you can wear with it, so you won't look as if you were just wearing ordinary pajamas." Finding what she sought, she held it up for my inspection—a lavish garment of heavy black silk, richly embroidered in gold thread.

"Of course it's a man's coat, but that won't matter. It will look ever so much better, don't you think so?"

There is really no explaining Elizabeth. She stepped bodily out of the nineties.

And that was why that warm night I was to wear the lovely blue pajamas almost entirely concealed under the hot black folds of the mandarin coat—a gorgeous, conspicuous garment whose darning, bloodstained appearance was to lead me before morning perilously near to a charge of murder.

ANSWER TO THE "VOTER WHO THINKS"

If you had read every copy of Congressional Record of last Congress like a good many Constitutional Democrats and Republicans of Dixon and Lee county did, you would have found that the re-organization bill of the New Deal was "dictatorship bill." Did you ever think of that?

Did you ever stop to think if the New Deal's reorganization bill had become the law of our fair land the New Deal would become a dictator? A dictator is no respecter of persons and makes no difference whether you are a New Deal Democrat or otherwise and you and I and the rest of us would have to tow the mark or get in front of a firing squad.

The New Deal brain trusters, who never earned a dollar before in their lives until 1933, would like to take away the sovereign rights of the 48 states, cut them up into provinces like Russia and the inhabitants in them, serfs and slaves. How would you like that? Did you ever think that Thomas Corcoran, Tommy the Cork, one of the New Deal advisors, would like to pull down our grand old flag of 130,000,000 Americans and put in its place the red flag of Russia? Would you think that would mean, war, yes, war. This land of 4,000,000 ex-soldiers who followed the Stars and Stripes on many bloody battlefields and will float over you and me many years to come and thousands of years over those who follow us. When the Stars and Stripes are destroyed so is our American Constitution and the cents for wheat and fifty cents for moru. Did you ever think if you were farming 160 acres of ground and your acres for corn was cut to 20 acres and you were expected to feed four carloads of cattle and a carload of fat hogs for the market, could you have enough corn from 20 acres to feed that many and all other stock and pay your taxes?

I have farmed and fed cattle and hogs for the market and you cannot do it from 120 acres of corn, and feed other stock too. Try it and find out.

ANOTHER TOWNSEND SUCCESS

Club No. 1 wishes to thank the Dixon merchants who so generously donated the lovely prizes for the cake walk held Wednesday, Nov. 2; also the Evening Telegraph for the courtesy extended us.

The affair sponsored by Club No. 1 Wednesday is only the fore-runner of many more of its kind during the winter season. There were a hundred or more in attendance at the meeting and about twice that number present for the evening's entertainment. Two orchestras furnished music for dancing, and a score of home baked pumpkin pies and good coffee furnished the refreshments.

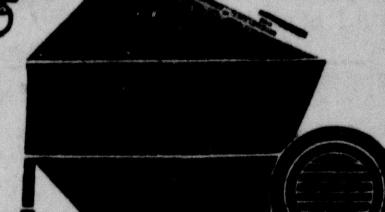

Two of Dixon's prominent business men gave short instructive talks. Many out of town guests were present. People are awakening to the fact that something must be done to change conditions and realizing the Townsend plan is the best answer. Members, remember to vote right. We must win.

VOTE YES ON BANKING AMENDMENT

On the ballot Tuesday you will find a place to vote on the abolition of the double indemnity clause in the state banking law. Vote yes.

GO TO THE POLLS TUESDAY

No matter what the decision of the voters may be next Tuesday, The Telegraph hopes to see a big turnout of ballot-casters. Only by getting a big percentage of the voters to go to the polls can the real will of the people be registered. With the privilege of voting goes the duty of voting. It is a poor citizen who cannot take the time to cast his ballot and usually he is the one who has the most to say about how badly the country is run. Real Americanism calls for the exercise of the right to vote.

REPUBLICANISM IS COMING BACK

If the enthusiasm which has been prevalent at the Republican meetings held throughout Lee County during the closing days of this campaign is a barometer, there is more Republican sentiment here this year than in many years past.

The Republican ticket in Lee County has the sort of merit that brings out spontaneous enthusiasm and the senatorial and congressional and state tickets are also of the type that voters everywhere can be proud to support. The Democratic national regime has performed in such a way that none but job-holders and last-ditchers can swallow it and independent and Republican voters who have been led to follow it in recent elections through lurid promises see the fallacy of the New Deal and fear the consequences of giving it more chances for experimentation on the welfare of this nation.

After all the wild schemes of the New Deal have been tried we are worse off than ever and Heaven only knows what will be the result to America if the New Deal has a chance to try many more of its funny ideas on us.

We believe the people are at the point of turning from the Democratic party and everything connected with it until such a time as that party rids itself of its present masters. All we can do this year is to elect Republican members of the U. S. Senate and the House and to state legislative and county offices. Opposition to the New Deal in Washington and all down the line will help to keep a measure of safety for the United States until 1940 when the voters will have an opportunity to get this country back on the road to normal, sound prosperity.

Go to the polls on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, and register your convictions.

NO CARRIER BOYS UNDER 14

Fair Labor Standards Act, they call it. What the Telegraph calls it and what some of our carrier boys call it is something else, because in order to comply with this law the Telegraph must discharge about thirty of its carrier boys in Dixon and surrounding towns and must employ in their places boys of the ages between 14 and 16. It is a federal law and newspapers all over the country are reluctantly changing over their carrier boy forces to meet its demands.

It may be that in the great cities boys of the younger ages should not be on the downtown streets, but in cities the size of Dixon and smaller, we can see no reason why it would be injurious to a boy of 12 or 13 to have a paper route. In fact, most parents, whether the boy or the family needs the income or not, like to have a boy of those ages carry papers for a year or two. It is valuable experience for them and a healthy outdoor activity that does not interfere with their school work or study hours and gives them a wholesome, gainful occupation for an hour or so. Boys of these younger ages usually make better carrier boys than the older ones. Often their weekly earnings are a big help toward their own support or in filling out the family budget.

There are about 80 carrier boys delivering The Dixon Evening Telegraph in Dixon and surrounding towns. The annual payroll for Evening Telegraph carriers is something in excess of $8,500 a year.

It is with regret that we find that the New Deal forces us to part with thirty of our best carrier boys.

POLITICAL CANDY

Monday the treasury reported a deficit of $908,950,284 for the first three and a half months of the fiscal year—more than twice the $411,560,270 shortage for the similar period of the previous year.

WPA was the principal factor in increased expenditures. This agency, with relief rolls now at the record total of more than 3 million persons, spent $646,568,565 for the three and a half months—compared to $373,198,886 in the same months last year.

The crossroads grocer used to give his credit customers candy and cigar bonuses when they settled their accounts. His neighbor, the horse-and-buggy doctor, put sugar coating on pills of bitter medicine.

When inevitable reckoning comes, and the people have to pay for the government's credit excesses, will there be enough sugar left over from making "on the cuff" political candy to coat the quinine pills taxpayers have to swallow?

A STRANGE RECORD

Some folks believe our punishment of criminals is too drastic. Others believe it is not drastic enough. Some believe we should not punish, but should reform.

If statistics presented by Commentator magazine are correct, these arguments are beside the point, for most of us fail to take into proper consideration the parole system. Commentator says the average time served for taking human life is less than five years; for aggravated assault, two years; for robbery, four years; for burglary, two years, and larceny, one and a half years.

We must now consider whether these average periods of imprisonment are long enough either to punish or reform.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT RESULTS

The anti-aircraft maneuvers at Fort Bragg, N. C., proved civilian observers extremely effective in the detection of airplanes overhead.

Another result was definite approval of a new anti-aircraft gun, a little 37 mm. weapon which is said to be effective up to 10,000 feet. The new gun fires about 120 rounds a minute and is of a type first tested in the United States in 1926.

A third result will undoubtedly be a considerable clamor

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. It did not prove so in the case of the Duke of Windsor. But I think his case is an exception. The deepest passion in human nature, especially masculine nature, is the passion for assertion, power, importance. Men will give up love of woman, home, even life, to secure it. Even in man's love for woman the desire for power and mastery is not altogether absent.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. The best answer is that of the small boy who said his history did not repeat itself—he had to learn it. Just so with mankind—each generation learns its own lessons and rarely do they learn them in the same way or reach the same answer. It is estimated that over 400,000 volumes have been written on human history and it would be a dull intellect that could not find some points of similarity between various periods.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. It will require another hundred years to answer this question—possibly a thousand. But I think we are beginning vaguely to see the answer. For example, as our recent visitor, the Swedish Crown Prince, has shown, Sweden has a great deal of regulated production and distribution and has only 20,000 unemployed out of a population of six and a half millions; and everybody has a home and food. But Germany, Italy and Russia have an enormous amount of regulation and are certainly much worse off than Sweden. We are just beginning to experiment and beyond question will experiment further. Personally I think unregulated selfish competition will result in enormous production but that considerable regulation will be required for wise distribution. Copyright 1938, John F. Dille Co.

(Note to editors: One free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round goes with the Brass Ring to Viscountess Astor, the American lady, who with her Cliveden set now rules England.)

Washington—Most potent governing group in Britain today is not the cabinet, but the little gathering of lords and ladies, newspaper editors and bankers who gather at Cliveden, country estate of Lord Astor, every weekend to drink highballs around a huge fireplace, and discuss the foreign policy of the empire.

This is the Cliveden set, becoming more famous and more powerful month by month.

Cliveden is a baronial estate about 50 miles from London, whose high, ivy-covered towers look down upon the river Thames, whose walls are covered with the American fur-trapping ancestors of the Astors, and whose hostess, Lady Nancy Astor, is fonder of talking politics than her Virginia relatives are of talking horses.

Nancy Astor is one of those intensely energetic people who is never happy unless she is making people turn handsprings.

"Now say something amusing, Mr. Shaw," she once commanded the venerable Bernard Shaw, who had been invited to Cliveden to meet the late Senator Joe Robinson, Secretary of State Stimson, and other Americans.

Mr. Shaw's response was a facial expression which clearly read: "Oh Lord, why did I come?"

..... Hitler and Cliveden .....

When Nancy Astor puts this same energy to work in the field of political relationships, there is no telling what may eventuate.

One of the things that eventuated last November was the visit of Lord Halifax to see Hitler.

Another was the Chamberlain journeys to see der Fuehrer in September.

The Cliveden set has not quite adopted Adolf Hitler as "their leader," but almost. Their feeling toward him is one of mingled admiration and fear. They fear that eventually he will turn against England. But they admire the manner in which he rebuffs Russia.

One reason for the affinity between Hitler and the Cliveden set is the fact that most of them are Christian Scientists. When Hitler first seized power in Germany one of the Clivedenites visited the new Chancellor and persuaded him to exempt Christian Science from Nazi religious persecution. Not long ago, Robert Seton-Watson, prominent British writer, described the Cliveden set as "a mixture of Christian Science and African gold."

The gold is represented by Lord Lothian, who is secretary of the Rhodes trust for educating Americans at Oxford, and whose family inherited vast gold fields in South Africa. Himself educated in a Jesuit school, he rebelled, became converted to Christian Science, but still has the Jesuitical manner of thinking.

Lothian makes frequent visits to Hitler, and the notes of these conversations, which he has shown to friends, indicated that he considers himself spiritually affiliated with the German dictator.

Lord Lothian began life as Philip Kerr, secretary to Lloyd George, was considered a great liberal. He now carries tremendous weight with the cabinet, is a sort of minister without portfolio.

..... Londonderry .....

Unlike Lothian, Lord Londonderry, another member of the group, is noted for the vacuum-like condition of his cranium. His pro-Nazism is due to his education among goose-stepping Junkers. His part in British politics is largely through the influence of his wife.

Londonderry is a close friend of Goering, and apparently is so anxious to protect Nazi secrets that he suppressed certain findings of the British Air Ministry showing that Germany had located aerodromes near her west coast within easy striking distance of London. The British were permitted to know about this only after it was revealed in American newspapers.

Part of the Cliveden set's strength is their control of the British press. Major John Jacob Astor, brother-in-law of Lady Astor, owns The London Times, whose editorials have empire repercussions. Also members of the set are Geoffrey Dawson, editor of The Times, and Barrington Ward, assistant editor.

Viscount Astor. Viscount Waldorf Astor owns another powerful newspaper, The Sunday Observer, while Lord Beaverbrook, the present "Lord Northcliffe" of England, is a frequent Cliveden visitor.

Viscount Astor notes in his self-penned biography that among his college accomplishments were representing Oxford in "pole, steeple-chasing and sabres."

The Viscount does not seem to be accomplishing vastly more than that today. He stays in the background. His wife does the talking.

Nancy Astor has several distinctions. She was the first woman ever to be elected to the British Parliament. Although divorced before she married Lord Astor, she also has got by the hurdle that no divorced lady can be presented in Court. Born in Greenwood, Va., daughter of Chiswell Dabney Langhorne, she married Lord Astor in 1906.

Other members of the Cliveden set include Sir Neville Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin, who announced months in advance of the Vienna putsch that Austria could be considered a part of Germany.

Lord Halifax, the Foreign Minister, also drops in for a spot of tea, as do Sir Samuel Hoare, Sir John Simon and other high Cabinetiers.

Montague Norman, head of the Bank of England, also is a member and was influential in putting through the British financial credit to Germany. The effect of the loan was to speed up German rearmament. Meanwhile the British government was scratching around to find money to complete its own rearmament. That, in brief, gives the policy of the Cliveden set, namely, to grant favors to Hitler, even though those favors jeopardize the empire.

FRESH INDICATION EASTERN SQUADRON WILL BE PERMANENT

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The administration's decision to reopen the New Orleans navy yard, inoperative since 1921, gave fresh indication today, that the "temporary" Atlantic squadron, created last September, might become a permanent sea force.

Only last spring, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, told a house committee the navy had more facilities on the Atlantic coast than were needed.

At that time, however, the fleet was concentrated in the Pacific. Since then, 38 vessels have been organized into the Atlantic squadron. In the meantime, too, there has been official concern over the possibility the totalitarian states might seek expansion in South America.

President Roosevelt announced at Hyde Park, N. Y., yesterday the administration's intention to reopen the New Orleans yard. He also said steps were being taken to cut down delays in construction of warships and that a $22,000,000 World War ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., would be reopened.

In connection with the general speeding up of naval armament, a World War torpedo factory at Alexandria, Va., is being fitted to aid in production of underwater projectiles for submarines.

Previously, a series of defense proposals in other fields has been announced as an outgrowth of a restudy of armament needs.

Power companies have agreed to expand their facilities to meet possible emergency requirements in wartime and new appropriations for munitions, planes and warcraft are to be proposed.

A plan is being formulated for financial rehabilitation of the railroads; efforts are being made to supply more skilled workers for key industries; "educational" munitions orders are being placed with selected manufacturers; and plans are under way to acquire larger stocks of "strategic" and critical materials.

INTERNSHIP IN BUSINESS

That long pull between a successful college career and landing a place in the business world has been greatly shortened by the successful experiment conducted under the guidance of the American Association of University Women, says Arthur W. Baum in the November Commentator.

For the experiment, seventeen girls from colleges in different sections of the country took post graduate courses last summer on the subject of jobs and business. The courses were taken not only in a school room but in business life itself. After a few days' training in the classroom, the girls were sent out to different business offices where they were interviewed by the manager.

Upon acceptance, they were assigned to a job in the office where they had to keep regular office hours and follow all company rules. They were subject to the severest criticism and had no advantage over regular employees except that they were shifted from job to job throughout the company. Daily reports of their progress and mistakes were sent to the A. A. U. W. for remedial attention. Besides the daily job the troupe held voluntary night class meetings where they discussed the day's problems. Further business grooming in telephone conversation, poise, posture and manners was also given in these classes. When their internship was completed all found that their work was well worth while. They had a working knowledge of four business fields and fourteen had jobs. Men graduates and interested employers might well take the tip.

Approximately 9 per cent of Scotland's houses consist of one room, while 33 per cent have two rooms only.

Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association Sponsors Successful Benefit Affair

Lincoln Parent-Teacher association, students of the new Lincoln school, and their teachers have a conspicuously large and bright future in their cap today, following the jumpy supper, the operetta "Pinocchio," and fish pond sponsored by the association at the school last evening. A huge crowd, estimated at between 1,000 and 1,200 persons, thronged the beautiful new building throughout the evening, finding almost equal enjoyment in the entertainment and its setting.

With every room ablaze with light, the school almost took on the appearance of a fairy castle. A typical background for the fairy tale motif of the operetta, which was presented twice during the evening.

Taking their bows in response to little short of an ovation, were members of the cast of characters, headed by Leroy Sherman, in the role of the beloved wooden doll, Pinocchio. Assisting him in interpreting the familiar tale, (which satisfies for young and old alike their love of adventure, their delight in comedy, and their joy in a happy ending), were scores of Leroy's schoolmates, all appearing in colorful costumes, from Talking Cricket to rhythm band members.

Hundreds of patrons visited the fish pond during the evening, and the refreshment tables were doing a rushing business both before and after the entertainment. Mrs. Robert Ayers, president of the Parent-Teacher association, and her committees of mothers were in charge of the supper.

Although the association members were unable to say today how much they netted from the affair, they believe the amount will be somewhere near $400. The exact amount will be known at the next meeting of the association on Nov. 18.

More Than 125 Couples Attend Republican Dance

Putting their best party-shod foot forward last evening to show their friends a good time, members of the Young Republican club were entertaining with an informal dance at Brinton Memorial Masonic temple. More than 125 couples, representing every precinct in Lee county, turned out for the affair.

American flags, and red and blue floodlights, furnished a colorful setting for the dancers, who were entertained from 9:30 until 12:30 by Dee Palmer's eight-piece band from DeKalb. During intermission, party enthusiasm reached a high peak, with Robert Dean of Ashton, the club president, introducing Chairman H. C. Warner of the Lee county Republican central committee, State Representative Collins, and the various local candidates. Harold Cook of this city was chairman of the dance committee.

Mrs. M. Glatter Reviews Book by Hungarian Writer

Mrs. Magda Glatter was giving her audience many interesting sidelights of her native city, Budapest, when she reviewed the book, "Prelude to Love," by the young Hungarian writer, Jolan Foldes, for members of the Dixon Woman's club yesterday afternoon. Forty-five members of the club attended the program, presented in the Dixon high school music room.

In "Prelude to Love," Mrs. Glatter said, Miss Foldes has written something different from her prize winning book, "The Street of Fishing Cat," and her delightful light novel, "I'm Getting Married." The speaker described the book as a study of adolescent psychology, written in diary form; the story of a young girl's preparations for her life's ambition—to write a novel about her mother's life.

Mrs. Victor Eichler introduced the speaker in the absence of Mrs. Adolph Eichler, chairman of the literature and library extension department. Mrs. Eichler's co-workers include Mesdames George Christianson, W. W. Roat, George Van Nuys, H. E. Marselus, O. O. Burns, and C. C. Rowley.

Bishop Who Spoke in Dixon Says Effect of Fanaticism Has Always Been Chaos

The Rt. Rev. Irving Peake Johnson, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Colorado, who preached at St. Luke's church in this city on Sunday, October 23, is the author of the following article which appears in "The Witness" one of the Episcopal church weeklies:

"There was in our Lord's time a small sect, to which one of the Apostles had belonged, who had as their mission to resist Roman authority by violent means and so to free the Jews of Roman oppression. What they accomplished was to create anarchy, resulting in the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple. Our Lord seemed to ignore them; certainly He did not encourage them.

"Since then there have been numerous groups who have felt confident that the way to accomplish reform was to overthrow the existing social order by force and so to set up a new regime in place of the old. As in Jerusalem the effect of fanaticism has always been chaos. In Russia and Germany they have expelled one devil and seven others have come in to replace them. The very faults of which they complained in church and state have been repeated sevenfold in themselves. If these institutions were guilty of injustice, hypocrisy, and bigotry, the new substitutions have committed the same faults to the nth degree, and whatever increased material advantages have occurred have been secured by methods that they themselves condemned as the reason for their revolution.

"They have whined about injustice to one group and yet they terrorized those groups which they disliked. They have prated about loving the common man but have shot him when he disagreed with them. They love nobody but themselves. They have displayed a bigotry in dogmatism never equalled in previous hierarchies.

"We are told that they are a united group in contrast with the divisions of Christendom. Such a claim is naive. For example if men believe in God there is a wide chance of disagreement in theology; but in denying God's existence there is no chance of disagreement. You cannot differ in a negative. Moreover if one shoots the men who oppose him there is a reasonable presumption that there will not be many differences of opinion. A bullet is a conclusive argument if not a convincing one.

"There is plenty of evidence in Russia that there has been a dispute as to what constitutes communism but Stalin, having killed most of his former associates, can still produce a united front. As a matter of fact there is as much disagreement among those who invent a newism as there has ever been in those who maintain the established order. Human minds are not like pickets on a fence, no matter how much men may try to make them such.

"After all the vital question is one of major premises. If one group of men believe in God as a Father and another group assumes that there is no God; if one group relies on persuasion and another on brute force; if one group is governed by a moral code and another group scoffs at any ethical standards, then there can be no common denominator upon which any permanent agreement can be reached between these two groups.

"A man cannot serve God and mammon, for in the end the brute will dominate reason and the end of brutality is chaos.

"Of course one may justly criticize institutions, both church and state. It is easy to point out flaws in any structure. But that does not mean that the critic has the ability to rear another structure in which more justice and more equity will be assured. In my experience critics are not noted for their constructive abilities.

A mob can tear down a house without any power to replace it with something better. "Whereas a nation goes communist or nazi you have the same result—that of a totalitarian state in which a self-constituted dictator demands submission to his will. So far as human liberty is concerned it is doomed in either case.

"We must choose between God and Caesar, and all Caesars look alike to me. If I have to choose between an inefficient government with liberty of conscience and one that produces material prosperity but permits no liberty, I will not hesitate. To accept the rule of any group of zealots means the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple of God, and in the loss of liberty.

"No system of government can procure human decency unless those who direct it are animated by the love of God and respect for the moral law and have reverence for human liberty. Whatever progress along these lines has ever been made has come from individual righteousness and never from political domination.

"It was true in our Lord's time that men had made His Father's house a den of thieves and they have done so since, but the Master loved it, suffered for it and saw man's only hope in the fulfillment of the law. But that fulfillment must come by the remnant who would leave the whole, and never from brute force or violent revolution.

"The zealots in all ages have made Jerusalem a heap of stones and then built a shrine to Moloch out of the wreckage.

"Christ taught that if the world is to become better men must begin by becoming better themselves. No external compulsion can make it better."

Dixon Man Attended N. U. Alumni Conference

Oliver M. Rogers, 523 East Everett street, was among the 300 alumni who attended the Council's conference at Northwestern university recently. Representatives of the university's 104 alumni organizations all over the world participated in the meeting. The counselors met at a dinner in their honor which was addressed by President Walter Dill Scott; Harry L. Wells, vice president and business manager of the university; and head football coach Lynn Waldorf. Dr. H. Clifford Northcott of Champaign, a member of the university's board of trustees, presided at the meeting.

After the business session of the conference speakers included Harold J. Clark, president of the Northwestern University Alumni association; Edwin O. Blomquist, vice president; and John Nagel, executive secretary. Dr. Joseph Hinsey of Scaradale, N. Y., presided over the meeting.

The counselors considered the problem of how alumni could aid their alma mater to the greatest extent. Specific problems considered included the university's need for scholarships, the selective process for admitting students, alumni donations to the university, and the work of the alumni clubs.

Bats caused the discovery, in 1901, of the Carlsbad Caverns, in New Mexico. Seeing what they thought was smoke, cowboys investigated and found millions of bats emerging from the caverns.

VIENNA CHOIR BOYS ARRIVE IN CITY FOR CONCERT SUNDAY

The world-famous Vienna Choir Boys, several of whom are touring America for the first time, arrived in Dixon today in preparation for their concert here tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the high school auditorium.

Twelve hours of sleep in every day are the ingredients for a recipe which takes the hardships out of playing "father" to 20 growing boys on tour, Victor Gomboz, director of the choir, reports.

Including a two-hour nap before every concert, the 12 hours of sleep, which are part of the young Vienna singers' daily routine, are ingredients which create good dispositions among his charges, the conductor maintains. Accompanied on their travels by a nurse, as well as their conductor and manager, the boys travel as far as 200 miles between concerts, occasionally having a holiday, when they attend American moving pictures.

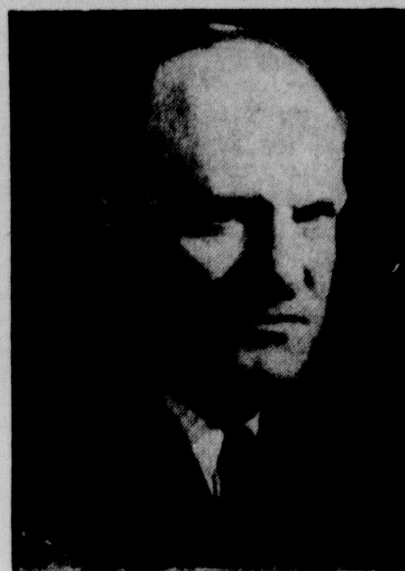

Black tea, "a big pot" with plenty of cream, is usually served the boys for breakfast. The breakfast beverage is varied from day to day, but tea makes an addition to the meal when it precedes a long bus trip to the next concert stop, Gomboz said.

This morning between 10 and 11 o'clock the boys were taken to the high school gymnasium and they marched across the river in military style . . . two by two.

The concert tomorrow afternoon is the first in a series of three which is open to the members of the Dixon concert association.

The expenses of the President of the United States and the upkeep of the White House total about $450,000 annually. King George's civil list normally appropriates $2,888,900.

"Essentials" comprise less than 2% per cent of the imports of the United States.

WARD T. MILLER
FOR COUNTY TREASURER

During my service as Sheriff of Lee County I have SAVED THE TAXPAYING CITIZENS OF LEE COUNTY ALMOST $20,000.00, representing earnings collected and turned over by the Sheriff's Office.

I have always had the welfare of the citizens at heart and have endeavored to better the industrial life in Dixon and Lee County. I have worked earnestly in behalf of law enforcement. As County Treasurer of Lee County I will render the same efficient service to the taxpayers whose interests are the first to be served.

Taking care of the duties of my office keeps me from personally contacting many of the voters of this County, which, as you know, extends over a large area.

I have been your County Clerk for the past four years, and in the manner in which I have conducted such office meets with your approval. I will greatly appreciate your co-operation and support at the General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 8, 1938.

Respectfully yours,

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

Chapter 33
"THE SHIRT IS PATCHED"
"I am over twenty-one years of age and not under the dictates of my father. You'll either give me my property or be arrested for theft."
Kit-Smyth blustered a little, but past experience had taught him this Kathleen Gregory was fearless.
The bags taken from the car, Kathleen looked through one handbag and turned to Kit-Smyth. "Now, my power of attorney. You've stolen that from this bag. I think you've gone just about as far as you're going to go. No one in this county or in this state is going to listen to you when I've told my story. If we'd waited for you and your right-of-way, those men would have been dead. Come on, now, give it to me!"
Reluctantly Kit-Smyth reached in an inner pocket and withdrew the document. Kathleen looked at it to be sure it had not been tampered with. She moved her bags across the line onto MacDonald's property.
"Now go wire my father that his chance of claiming I was unauthorized and wilful in turning The Golden Girl over to the rescue of the MacDonald miners, is pretty slim. As long as he hadn't enough trust in me to write me, you can tell him for me, that I am no longer a Gregory and I'll appear against him if he tries to bring such a suit."
Kit-Smyth jumped into his car and drove away.
Kathleen stood a moment. She had just renounced her own people. The MacDonalds would welcome her, but she wasn't ready to accept them as an alternative.
Was there no truly neutral ground in Neutrality? Wearingly she made the several trips down. The old shepherd greeted her joyously, escorting her each time she went for additional bags.
As Balmly had prophesied, the door was unlocked, there was firewood and tea in the cannister. As she brewed the tea and toasted old bread, Kathleen indulged in serious thinking. For the first time in her life she was truly alone. She believed Donald loved her and would ask her to become a MacDonald, but even in his delirium he had said nothing of marriage. And she had thought her father loved her and believed in her.
Reaction from the dramatic tension of the previous days and nights set in. She thought Balmly's cot and for many hours turned and tossed. Perhaps she had been wrong in everything. She was young, her father was old and full of wisdom.
The next morning Kathleen carried her breakfast to the terrace. Bridget found her there.
"We saw smoke coming from the chimney," she explained. "We had no idea where you'd gone to. Kit-Smyth said you wouldn't be on Gregory property. Why didn't you come to us?"
"I couldn't and this isn't Gregory property, it's Balmly's. Bridget, how... have they heard about Donald I mean?"
Bridget nodded, her eyes troubled. "He needed her. He needed her, perhaps more than anything. He sent for his mother last night."
Kathleen nodded. He had sent for his mother. He hadn't sent for her.
"That Awful Man!"
"The men are being transferred to the MacDonald hospital today. Kathleen, she's ready to give up her home. Kit-Smyth ordered them off the property. Doctor Cleveland and he had a peach of a row."
"What are you going to do, Kathleen? Hadn't you better come up with us?"
"I'll wait for Balmly, then I'm going on."
Bridget waited a few moments as though anxious of saying something. "Well," she stood up. "I see you before you leave. Oh," she thrust forward a package she had been carrying. "Mrs. MacDonald asked me to give this to you."
Kathleen barely heard her. Donald hadn't called for her. He hadn't sent word to her. Nothing else mattered. She could at least have the scene with flags flying. She could at least greet Old Balmly in festive attire.
Balmly would like to see her truly feminine. In her bags, somewhere, there was a white ruffled dress embroidered in tiny yellow rosebuds. She'd don that.
She felt better after that; tied her curls back with a thin yellow ribbon and went back to the terrace feeling more in tune with the apple tree.
It was then she saw the package. It contained the other half of the blood-stained shirt; the half Old MacDonald must have worn. She would sew the two together and give the whole to Bridget. No matter what laws the Gregorys laid down, the people of Neutrality would no longer be divided.
The last stitch was taken, the thread knotted when she heard someone come around the house. Donald MacDonald paused on the edge of the terrace to look at the girl who waited, then he walked forward with his sure step. Kathleen believed her heart waited with her, her breath waited.
"I brought you some wires," said MacDonald.
"So nice of you," murmured Kathleen. The rose faded from her cheeks with her acute disappointment, her eyes darkened.
"Don't let me detain you."
"You're not." He sat on the stone wall as though grateful for rest, and lighted a cigarette. "Go on read them, don't mind me."
"I don't," and won't!" she retorted answering both.
She ripped open the first wire. Don't marry that man!
Beatrice Gregory.
She tore open the second.

All is forgiven. Come home. Don't marry that awful man!

Mother.
She opened the third. It was much too long for a Scotchman to send as a straight wire, but evidently Angus Gregory wasn't feeling Scotch. With increasing delight his daughter read.
Dear child I am proud of you. Thank God you were there to put that bounder Kit-Smyth in his place. You acted like a true Gregory. Wires from Bridget convince me has misrepresented everything from start to finish. Regret my haste in replying to last letter. Glad you defied him. If you would like pleasure of discharge, I will hold my hand. Will hire new engineer. Am making you honorary superintendent. You have earned position. Happy to advise you the blasting operation new vein running back at right angle to old. Right-of-way no longer such vital necessity. Trust I may discount Kit-Smyth's word of you becoming a MacDonald. Take my advice. Don't marry the man! Will be there with you Sunday. Love from your proud father.

"Fighting My Love"
She laid the wire aside and longed at "the man." It was ridiculous to admire anyone as much as she admired him. It was rather frightening to feel your lifetime's happiness depended upon him.
"Feel better?" He smiled at her and the world was suddenly righted, in focus, beautiful.

Kathleen handed him the telegram. He read it slowly, his face reflecting the emotions each phrase produced. And when he reached the final line he said, "Ha, Hurrah for him. See, he's told you not to marry me. For the first time I have some hopes. I've never yet seen you do anything you were ordered to do."

"Yet?" questioned Kathleen.
"That's what I said. Now stay where you are. He reached out to draw her close, then his voice changed from triumph to seriousness. "Do you know dear, I've wanted to do this from the moment I saw you? I didn't know the desire to punish and to love were so involved. I fought it. I wasn't fighting you, I was fighting myself, fighting my love for you. I tried to build up a good strong hatred and it turned on me. You'll never know..."

When Kathleen had use of her lips again, she exclaimed, "What do you mean I'll never know? Do you think I wanted to love you? You stiff-necked MacDonald!"
They were at it again. Balmly, carried around the rear of the house, saw MacDonald shaking Kathleen by the shoulders. Kathleen playing at him with an old shirt, a blood-stained shirt, a shirt that had been torn in two... and mended.

"Congratulations," said Balmly. They stopped their quarreling then, to sit, Kathleen in the circle of Donald's arm, while they talked to the old man.
"Balmly, by the way," offered MacDonald, "you might like to know that I've sent on the right-of-way. I spent most of the night with mother and my attorneys drawing up the contract. I believe Angus Gregory will agree to the terms. From now on Neutrality will be just that, a Neutral town, and a friendly one. I want to turn the big house into a Community hall; one big community hall with no dividing line. I have you two to thank for this opportunity. If those men hadn't been brought out alive, I'd have left their bodies on my hands. The Gregorys would have tunneled through it if I'd given right-of-way when it was refused; there would have been a way out for the miners. I thought I was doing right by the Gregory miners when I refused. I had to learn my idea of right wasn't..."

Balmly held up his hand. "You had to learn that ideas based on hatred were boomerangs. Ideas based on love are the same, but you welcome their return. Now you two run along and let an old man sleep. My work is done. From now on I'll putter around my garden and among my people. I am very tired."

Kathleen add Donald walked slowly up the hill, then paused to look down on Neutrality. Their work had just begun. This was their town; theirs to turn into a place of peace.

TROOP NO. 1

Oct. 26 — After a game was played and a song sung, the meeting was conducted strictly to business as there were many things to discuss.
The troop decided to go swimming November 5 in Mount Morris.

They also decided definitely upon having Mrs. Buxton talk to us the last meeting of this month to which the senior troop members have been asked as guests. Committees were chosen as follows: Lela Kirk, invitation; Nadine Galos, Sue Bryant and Jean Moore, refreshments; Mary Poole, Carol Heckman, and Audrey Knack, directors of the play to be given and Mary Kowalewski, Helen Keller and Patty Lou Gannon, hostesses.

We decided to go with the senior troop in giving a tea for the Girl Scouts at college, but no definite plan was made.

The meeting was then closed by another game.

Nov. 2—The meeting was shortened because the Scouts who were in the play wished to practice. After a game was played, the meeting became formal and Helen Keller was invested as a tenderfoot.

Then they decided definitely on going swimming Nov. 5 at nine o'clock. A vote was taken on how much dues we should pay and it was decided to make them ten cents a month.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

On an open date for Dixon high school today, this department will get caught up on a little of the conversation around the neighborhood. Back fence gossip has it that DeKalb is in ship-shape for a showing against Mendota today for the North Central conference game. DeKalb was apparently in that condition last Saturday too—(nuff sed). This affair at DeKalb and the game of Belvidere at Sterling will be the chief concern of Dixon this week-end.

Rockford's team which triumphed over Dixon early in the season, marched through Elgin last night by a score of 19 to 12 with driving rain and wind on their backs. The preliminary affair was won by Elgin as the Rabbits were defeated 6 to 0. McEntree made one of the touchdowns and Stasica made two for Rockford.

East Aurora of the Big Seven conference still remains unbeaten, unscored upon and untied after defeating LaSalle-Peru last night in a 17 to 0 finale. The prep eleven scored its seventh straight victory and moved a step nearer to the Big Seven conference crown. East Aurora has scored 126 points this season, 80 within the conference.

Sterling Community moves on in its power drive of the season and yesterday trounced St. Mary of Clinton, Ia., by a 33 to 0 score. McDonnell made two touchdowns and Klocke, Blackburn and McDonald each made one. Curran was successful for three place kicks. The game was played at Sterling and was Community's homecoming—and a successful one, at that.

The homecoming celebration at Sterling high school began with a pep meeting last night and the war drums beat before starting the occasion which is to be climaxed today in the game with Belvidere. A parade was scheduled for this morning. A victory over Belvidere is necessary if Sterling is to remain in the race for conference honors. Dixon has its own desires in that matter, too.

The Illini are taking it quietly today with no scheduled game as they rest up and watch activities in other Big Ten camps. The Zuppke lads meet the mighty Ohio State team next Saturday at home and then wind up the season on Nov. 19 in the annual Chicago game which should be a safe bet in a topsy-turvy football world.

Given little consideration in the calculations of the experts, who have unanimously with the exception of Badger Alumnus Ray Wilbur nominated the Wildcats as easy winners, Harry Stuhldreher's University of Wisconsin football team is bent on confronting the critics and kicking the dope bucket clear out of the park, when they tackle the Wildcats in Dyche stadium this afternoon. Even Grantland Rice gave the Badgers a chance to win in his predictions.

A deliberate foul by a player against an opponent who is in the act of shooting will result in expulsion from the game for the offender under a rule adopted Thursday night by the Illinois high school basketball committee at Champaign.

Next Friday night Polo plays at Mt. Morris and Oregon at Morrison to continue the games scheduled in the Rock River conference. The conference title has already been clinched by Rock Falls after a victory over Polo Thursday, but there is still some jockeying to be done before the second and third place winners are final. The only other game remaining to be played in the conference is Rochelle at Rock Falls next Saturday.

FIFTY-THIRD HORSE SHOW EVENT OPENS IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Nov. 5—(AP)—The fifty-third national horse show, an event in the same class with the opening night at the opera for displays of ermine wraps, gorging evening gowns and diamond dog collars, opened its eighth day run at Madison Square Garden today.

Some 500 of America's best horses will be on display in various classes throughout the week. The best army riders and horses of Ireland, Mexico, Chile, Canada, Cuba and the United States will compete for rich prizes in the nightly international military jumping contests.

Although the preliminaries get under way in the morning, the big show, which is considered the opening event of the New York social season, doesn't start until tonight. Then Secretary of War Woodring will review the military teams as they parade around the tanbark ring while the band plays the various national anthems and society will turn out in full force.

Competition for the Bowman challenge cup is the feature of the opening night's competition. The $1,000 military challenge stake is the highlight of the Sunday night "gala" performance. Then come the three-day low score competition, the international military special trophy and individual and team championships.

Most prominent of the civilian exhibitors, representing 18 states, is Mrs. James J. Johnson, the former Frances Dodge of Rochester, Mich. She has entered 16 saddle and harness horses. Others include Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick, of Gurnee, Ill.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF HORSE RACING IS ONLY HALF ENDED

Fans Want Squaring Off Of Grayhound And Billy Direct

New York, Nov. 5—(AP)—It turns out that the horse racing championship of the United States was not entirely settled when Seabiscuit ran the hide off of War Admiral the other day at Pimlico. To be precise, it was only half settled.

There are a million or so harness racing fans between the two shores who won't get the least excited until there is a squaring off between Grayhound (1:55½), the champion trotter, and Billy Direct (1:55), king of the pacers.

Each horse holds the world record for his class, which is more than can be said for either the Biscuit or the Admiral. There's an awful lot of scrapping about which is the greater horse. It will be one of the chief topics of debate at the national harness racers convention next week end at Indianapolis.

May Never Meet

There is no telling whether the pair will ever race, despite the fact both owners were understood to be willing and anxious to have it out. Vic Fleming, the driver of Billy Direct, has declared his pacer is capable of beating Grayhound any time, anywhere.

Harness racing officials are lukewarm about matching the two horses, and with considerable reason. Their experience has been that such races are more likely than not to be flops. The sentiment at Indianapolis will have to be unanimously in favor of the race to make them change their minds.

The last harness match of any importance was contested back in 1915 between the great trotter, Peter Manning (1:56½), and the pacer Single G (1:58½), for a side bet of $10,000. Peter Manning won but it was a poor race, and the spectators at Hartford, Conn., were bitterly disappointed at the slow time.

One who saw the race recalled the two drivers pulled their horses nearly down to a walk for the better part of the mile distance, because each was determined not to supply a "wind break" for the other.

The harness driver's favorite position in any race is in second place, on the rail and right behind the leader. He likes to stay there, letting the front horse breast the wind, until they near the finish. About four times out of five these tactics win. Obviously, no driver wants to take the early lead.

The only solution suggested up to now is to bring the two record-holders together on a mile straight-away, but none of the parks where harness racing is held affords such a strip. It is possible, though, that such a course could be laid out if demand for the race becomes strong enough.

STATE ATHLETIC RULES SET FORTH BY ASSOCIATION

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 5—(AP)—High school athletes in Illinois who compete on "so-called all-star" teams hereafter will face the penalty of a year's ineligibility.

The State High School Athletic association adopted this ruling along with four other by-law amendments in its meeting held yesterday in conjunction with the state's 34th annual high school conference.

Other amendments adopted were:

Forfeiture of game for use of ineligible player, whether situation deliberate or inadvertent.

Board of control given authority to fix dates of state basketball tournaments, which must not begin later than March 20. Dates must be announced year in advance.

Student must present doctor's certificate certifying physical fitness to be eligible for interscholastic athletics.

Schools sponsored by colleges or universities such as U. High of Urbana, may schedule contests with non-members of the state association.

Kenneth Elliott of Lafayette was elected president of the Coaches' association. Paul Haunton of Palestine was named vice-president and John Clapp of Fairmount, secretary-treasurer. Re-elected to the football rules committee were Mark Peterman of Springfield, chairman; H. V. Porter of Chicago, secretary; and Salen Herke of Peoria Central, representative to the National Interscholastic Rules committee.

Pictured above is George Travis—the fisherman who picks his fish out of trees. Mr. Travis is holding the nine-and-a-half pound northern pike which was caught in a tree overhanging Franklin creek last Monday morning. He hooked the pike and in the struggle to land it, the pole broke but fortunately the line caught on a tree and the local man made haste to "pick the pike." From mouth to tail the fish measured 32 inches.

HASEN'T HAD CHANCE.

Bloomington, Ill.—(AP)—Speaking at a Democratic campaign rally, M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of agriculture, stated the present New Deal farm program had not had "a chance to show its real worth."

The reason, he said, was that "the original program was crippled by an adverse Supreme Court ruling, and the present program to encourage storage of surplus and control of acreage got under way only last spring."

GRID MILESTONE MARKED TODAY IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Princeton and Rutgers Began Intercollegiate Game in 1869

New York, Nov. 5—(AP)—A milestone in college football history will be marked today when Rutgers and Princeton, the teams that began the intercollegiate game back in 1869, clash in the new Rutgers stadium at New Brunswick, N. J., but to find the best football on the nation's program, a search would take one a long way from that locale.

Teams that probably could beat either Princeton or Rutgers without half trying met for sectional or national honors on other fields.

Conference championship hopes were at stake in the Big Ten, where Northwestern tackles an always dangerous Wisconsin outfit; Ohio State, co-leader with the Wildcats, took on Purdue; and Minnesota met Iowa. It's an even keener battle on the Pacific Coast where California and Southern California, sharing the lead with four conference victories apiece, come to grips in a game that likely will decide the title. Stanford-Washington and Washington State-U. C. L. A. met in other coast circuit games.

Other major loops the races ease off a trifle, but there were intersectional tilts to take up the slack in interest. Starting with the east, where Fordham-St. Mary's was tops, they can be found everywhere.

Other intersectional games on the eastern seaboard included Harvard-Chicago, Boston College-Indiana, Navy-Notre Dame, Columbia-Virginia, Villanova - Auburn, Manhattan-North Carolina State, Marshall-Furman and Boston University-Tampa. If that doesn't satisfy the fans, there were Michigan-Penn, Western Reserve-West Virginia, South Carolina-Duquesne, Clemson - George Washington, Centenary - Arizona and Texas Tech-Loyola (New Orleans) for a few others.

Might Men of Pitt

Then, too, the mighty men of Pitt and other candidates for top-most national honors met very tough rivals. Pitt took on its neighbor, Carnegie Tech, which gave Notre Dame a peek of trouble while Syracuse-Colgate, Holy Cross-Temple and Yale-Brown helped round out the Eastern slate. Only two ranking teams, undefeated Dartmouth and Army, took it easy against Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall, respectively.

Almost any one of the Big Six members was liable to meet trouble as Oklahoma played Kansas State and Kansas met Nebraska in conference games; and Missouri met Michigan State and pace-setting Iowa State played Drake.

Texas Christian, Southwest Conference leader, appeared in little danger against Tulsa but Rice and Southern Methodist, undefeated in the circuit, played Arkansas and Texas A and M, respectively, and Baylor met last-place Texas.

In Southeast

Tennessee, pace-setter in the southeastern circuit, had a breather against Chattanooga and Duke's Southern Conference leaders had an open date. Otherwise there was plenty of action in the south with such games as Alabama-Tulane, Georgia Tech-Kentucky, Louisiana State-Missouri State, North Carolina-Virginia Tech, Virginia Military-Wake Forest and the Citadel-Richmond.

In the Rocky Mountain Big Seven, Utah and Brigham Young, tied for the lead, took on a pair of tough rivals in Colorado and Utah State.

Countess Merry Finds Self With Two Hubbies

Chicago—(AP)—Countess Merry Fahmney Cassini, mapcap heiress to a patent medicine fortune, had on file in the Illinois Appellate court today a petition asking the court to reconsider its decision which left her with two husbands.

A week ago the court denied her divorce of last February from Baron Arturo Berlingieri, her third husband, holding the decree had been granted on insufficient grounds.

The orange-haired heiress married Count Oleg Cassini, a Russian dress designer, while Baron Berlingieri's appeal against the decree was still pending.

From the Camps

AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, O., Nov. 5—(AP)—

The weatherman forecast rain for today but despite the threat some 55,000 fans were slated to be on hand for a Big Ten football clash between Purdue's Boilermakers and Ohio State.

Ohio had the weight—an advantage of about 16 pounds per man but the Boilermakers had the confidence. In pre-game conversations the Hoosier invaders and their coach, Mal Elward, opined they could beat the Bucks and they waited only for the opening whistle to present their proof.

Ohio noded a win over the Purdue to remain at the peak of the Western Conference, a spot it now shares with Northwestern's Wildcats. In five games this year Purdue has won two, lost one and tied two, while Ohio has won three, lost one and tied one.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

Minneapolis, Nov. 5—(AP)—The Hawkeyes from the University of Iowa, who held Purdue to a scoreless tie last Saturday, squared off against Minnesota's Gophers today in an attempt to blast their way into the win column of the Western Conference.

The Gophers, defending Big Ten grid champs, nosed out Purdue by a single touchdown, and expected the worst as they went up against the inspired Hawkeyes. The Iowans were at

QUARTER CENTURY OF PARCEL POST BEING OBSERVED

Postmaster George Fruin has sent out to all local manufacturers as well as business and professional men, notice of the 25th anniversary of the Parcel Post system in the postoffices of the county. Announcement of the silver anniversary of the service points out numerous improvements in the original system, including special delivery of parcels as well as the C. O. D. feature. In announcing local observance of the 5th anniversary of Parcel Post, Postmaster Fruin stated today:

"I am desirous of serving this community with an efficient and expeditious postal service and will take this opportunity to invite you to use parcel post in connection with your mailing business and learn for yourself the advantages to be derived therefrom. Any information in connection, herewith, may be obtained from any postal employee."

Before Parcel Post was inaugurated in 1913, the maximum weight of any package accepted for mailing, was 16 ounces and the rate of postage was one cent per ounce, to anywhere in the United States, and today it is possible to send parcels weighing up to 70 pounds and with a maximum size of not exceeding 100 inches in length and girth combined.

Parcel Post opened a hundred new avenues to commerce, hitherto closed to rural communities, towns and cities. No other development in the Postal Service, has had the dynamic effect of Parcel Post on the economic and industrial life of the nation in the past 100 years, despite the fact that it is only 25 years old this year.

Today, Parcel Post is unique, in that it is possible to transport merchandise from "Anywhere to Everywhere", at surprisingly low rate with utmost security. No other agency affords the coverage or convenience of Parcel Post, with 45,000 post offices and 35,000 rural routes, covering 1,280,000 miles every day. The rural field alone represents one-fourth of the entire population of the country and is served by no other medium. No other agency can offer the security and the prestige inherent in the sole organization that bears the proud insignia, "U. S. MAILS".

Insurance of Parcel Post mail, is a decided advantage for the mailer, inasmuch as it protects against loss by breakage, theft and failure on the part of the addressee, to acknowledge or admit receipt, for the Post Office, obtains and files a receipt for each and every insured parcel delivered. The insurance rates are exceedingly low, and will often spare the mailer, the time and expense of additional correspondence in order to prove delivery of a parcel. Your insurance mailing receipt, will protect you from loss of any nature to parcel post matter.

Charges Many Give Lip Service to Agriculture

Lexington, Ky.—(AP)—Howard F. Sharp of Illinois Normal University told 1,000 delegates to the 1st annual meeting of the American Country Life Association that many city dwellers gave hypocritical lip-service to farming as a way of life.

Addressing the closing session of the meeting last night, he asserted "our agriculture is rapidly becoming top-heavy through the aspirations of young men and women to secure salaried positions only, in the promotion of agriculture. We need educated leaders, but more than that we need sincere, intelligent lovers of the soil."

During a three-month period, births in England and Wales showed there were 1,045 boys to every 1,000 girls.

VOTE YES VOTE

TO VOTERS of Lee County:

The County Superintendent of Schools should be elected on a two-fold basis, namely, qualifications and policies. You know my qualifications. As to policy—

First, I believe that changes in the school administration should not come as experiments endorsed by the superintendent, but as improvements worked out cooperatively by the teachers and the superintendent.

Second, I believe that in order to best prepare the children in the fundamentals that the basic subjects of reading, grammar, spelling and arithmetic should be emphasized.

Third, I believe that in order to secure these things local control of schools must be retained.

I have appreciated your friendliness and courtesy toward me. I shall be grateful for your support.

Voters of Lee County

In the election of 1934 I predicted that I would receive the majority of the votes cast outside Dixon. I was right.

In this coming election I shall again come into the City of Dixon with a lead—a greater lead than in 1934. I have canvassed the rural areas honestly and know I am correct.

I am in the peculiar position of having had a reference, who within the last week has appeared as an endorser of my competitor (Would it be more correct to say advertiser?)

The office I seek hasn't changed! I haven't changed!

My support in rural areas has changed! It has been growing stronger every day since October 29th. It will continue to grow every day, and will fulfill my prediction above to the consternation of the opposition. I state to the CONSTERNATION, not the SURPRISE.

Rural children and school officials need and want the same type of administrator village and city schools insist on. One trained for and REALLY EXPERIENCED IN TEACHING AND HANDLING their schools. Also one who comes to them for support and who knows them EVERY DAY.

DOUGLAS DENNIS IS REVEALED AS HARMON NATIVE

Got Chance to Aid in Production of Movies Through Cousin

Many who saw the motion picture play "Boys Town" last week noted the name of Considine as producer of that play, and remembered that a man of that name from Harmon has for a number of years been a scenario editor at Hollywood. However, the producer, John Considine, is not the one friends remembered, but rather Douglas Dennis Considine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis E. Considine of Harmon, who is an assistant editor on the staff of United Artists, Hollywood. Such pictures as "Abraham Lincoln," "Marco Polo" and the "Hurricane" are productions in which he had part as assistant editor. During the nine years that Douglas Considine has been at work in the Hollywood studio he has assisted in the production of many picture plays of the better sort, including "Dodsworth," in which Walter Houston starred. He was a fellow worker with Joe Schenk.

Noted Similar Name
Soon after his graduation with high honors from the University of Illinois, in 1929, the Harmon student returned to the home of his parents. He had noticed the name of John Considine in connection with the motion picture industry, and the thought occurred to him that he might write to this distant cousin, whom he had never met relative to securing work in Hollywood. Conferring with his mother he asked her permission, or her opinion, on such a proposition. Agreed, he wrote the letter to John Considine at Hollywood, but expressed the opinion to members of the family that he probably never would hear in reply.

It was not many days later an airmail letter came to him. The Hollywood producer, having read of the school and university record of the young man, offered him work for three months in a studio, but with the information that after that period it would be left with him as to his future.

Makes Good On His Own
Douglas Considine left immediately for Hollywood, and was put to work at the occupation he has followed continuously ever since. Due to his desire to be independent of his cousin, and not wishing to borrow any laurels from his reputation, Douglas Considine assumed his present professional name, that of "Douglas Dennis," the latter being the Christian name of his father; and his work is done under that nom de plume.

It is three years or more since his mother saw him. She made the trip to Hollywood and had an enjoyable and educational visit with her son, in the course of which she was made acquainted with the method of making pictures for the cinemas. While in Hollywood she met John Considine, her second cousin, who advised her to stop at Boys Town, Nebr., the Father Flannigan home for boys; and this she did on her way home.

Douglas Dennis (Considine) is a native of Harmon, received his elementary schooling there and is a graduate of the Dixon high school, class of 1925. He matriculated at the University of Illinois for the four-year course and was graduated therefrom in 1929. In his junior year he was elected president of the class. He is a Phi Beta Kappa of the U. of I., the highest schol

PRESIDENT ASKS VOTES FOR MEN OF LIBERALISM

President on Air Last Night in Pre-Election
Appeal

Hyde Park, Nov. 5—(AP)—President Roosevelt's election appeal to the nation's voters is a call for support of candidates "who are known for their experience and their liberalism."

"We all remember well-known examples of what an ill-advised shift from liberal to conservative leadership can do to an incomplete liberal program," he said in a radio address from his home last night.

Any weakening of the power of a liberal government in the elections, he said, would "reassure false hopes on the part of some business men, now beginning to change antiquated ideas, that, if they can hold out a little longer, no adaptation to change will be necessary."

In his only political speech of the 1938 campaign, the President:

Linked "old-line Tory Republicanism" to possible Fascist and Communist threats to American democracy;

Endorsed the New York state Democratic ticket;

Took a few inferential slaps at the New York Republican gubernatorial candidate, Thomas E. Dewey; and Praised Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan for his handling of strikes last year.

Mentioned Murphy

Murphy, Democrat running for re-election against former Republican governor, Frank D. Fitzgerald, was the only candidate outside of New York state who was mentioned by name in the half-hour talk.

After paying tributes to the "liberal" records of Governor Lehman, seeking a fourth term; Senator Wagner, long term senatorial candidate; and representative Mead, nominee for the short senatorial term from New York, the Chief Executive asked the voters throughout the nation to: "Look over the rest of the names on the ballot next Tuesday. Pick those who are known for their experience and their liberalism. Pick them for what they have done, and not just for what they say they would do."

Elaborating on his argument against a change in political leadership, Roosevelt said a "social or economic gain made by one administration may, and often does, evaporate into thin air under the next one."

Contrasting the American system of voting with foreign dictatorships, he said next Tuesday a "free people will have a free choice to pick free leaders for free men."

Asserting he was pressing "realistic necessity" and not talking "mere idealism," he continued: "I reject the merely negative purposes proposed by old-line Republicans and Communists alike—for they are people whose only purpose is to survive against any other Fascist threat than their own."

He said that the New Deal in its economic program was aiming for progress without paying the terrible price demanded by dictators in destroying civil liberty.

He said the "very fact that the business slump beginning last fall and running into last summer, did not become a major economic disaster like the slump, that ran from 1929 to 1933, is the best kind of proof that fundamentally we have found the right track."

SOCIETY UNDERMINED?

Champaign, Ill. —(AP)—Dean A. J. Harno of the University of Illinois College of Law told the 34th annual Illinois High School Conference yesterday that society's basic institutions were being undermined.

He asserted church influence was waning, the family unit was disintegrating and established governments were being uprooted.

C. L. Walters of Peotone was elected vice president of the Illinois High School Principals Association and John Snodgrass of Collinsville was elected North Central Association representative. President C. W. Allison of Champaign will continue in office until next year.

CONTRACTS FOR MOVING CITY TO BE LET IN WEEK

Much Work Has Been Done to Prepare Site of
New Shawneetown

Shawneetown, Ill., Nov. 5—(AP)—Mayor Harry Fred Howell said today contracts for moving homes and other buildings from this flood-plagued city to a new site out of reach of Ohio river waters would be ready next week.

His announcement was coincidental with a declaration by Major A. R. Lord, assistant state WPA administrator in charge of the Shawneetown relocation project, that all was in readiness insofar as WPA was concerned for immediate removal of houses from the present Gallatin county seat to the site for the new city.

"Why aren't we moving?" was an oft heard question from proponents of the plan to put the oldest town in Illinois three miles inland on a higher elevation.

Mayor Howell explained the relocation did not involve only the moving of homes to new sites. The present homesites, after contracts are signed, the officials said, are to be bought by the Gallatin Housing Authority with state funds—provided with the intention of obtaining the present Shawneetown for a state park. Before this purchase may be made, Howell said, title to the property must be checked thoroughly. Coincident with the sale is the purchase of a new homesite in the new city. In many cases the buyer will be loaned Disaster Loan Corporation or RFC funds by the housing authority. The WPA's work involves preparation of the new townsite and removal of the buildings.

To Pack Shoulders
Small houses will be moved first. Their transfer was expected to pack the earth shoulders of state route 13, avenue of transfer, and the size of the houses was to be increased as the shoulders became strengthened.

Power company and telephone company linemen were moving poles off the state route right-of-way to provide clearance for the homes in transit, and at least one concrete bridge was being enlarged.

A detour for route 13 traffic has been completed.

Most of the water system has been completed. The sewer disposal plant was under construction.

On the site and ready for occupancy were 62 dormitories, each capable of housing three families, to be used by project workmen or persons who do not wish to remain in their homes while they are moved.

The streets of the new city were being graded this week.

VOTE REPUBLICAN ON NOVEMBER 8th

A Definite and Constructive Program

1. TO—Provide a job for everyone.
2. TO—Stop New Deal waste and failure
3. TO—Restore confidence.
4. TO—Increase old age pensions, without a pauper's oath, under a sound social security law.
5. TO—Safeguard employees' rights to organize and bargain collectively, under protection of law.
6. TO—Get men off WPA and Relief by providing permanent jobs in regular places of production and service.
7. TO—Raise living standards by paying prevailing union wages on WPA projects.
8. TO—Restore jobs in factories and produce better prices for farm products by protecting the American markets from foreign competition.
9. TO—Create a greater demand for factory goods and farm products by restoring the ability to buy through higher wages and steady employment.
10. TO—Give business and industry a chance to expand, employ workers, sell goods and go forward.
11. TO—Stay out of foreign wars and imperialistic intrigues.
12. TO—Prove that 6 years of experimentation is plenty and only a change from the New Deal can make times better.
